

The Artful Robin

"It's always good to think ahead. It might not go the way you want, but the important thing is you thought it!"

You've got ambition. You've got plans. When you've got the brains and the chutzpah to carry yourself through, the world is your clam-thingy! Admittedly, you're almost never able to focus on the same plan for more than five minutes at a time, but you're always sure that it will work out this time, honest! You have a habit of picking up human items for your own use; you can even write, if you get the urge, though your handwriting is what one would expect from using a pencil the size of your leg.

Vital Statistics

Crowning Achievement: Creating a "lair" that's twice as big and three times as messy as the average fae's home.

Longest Time Spent On One Plan: Three hours with other fae helping; 14 minutes working alone.

Self-Awareness Level: Low.

Quirks

I Have A Plan!

Your friends often find your schemes confusing, but you don't hold that against them – your plans are so clever that sometimes they confuse even you! This Quirk helps whenever things are going According To Plan... or whenever you can plausibly claim that they are.

A Minor Setback!

Complications are inevitable when you've got so many irons in the fire – you can't allow yourself to be discouraged by every little difficulty. This Quirk helps when you remain convinced that everything will work out in spite of all evidence to the contrary.

Powers

Superior Flight

You have a pair of dragonfly wings that allow you to fly with great speed and precision. You're faster than anything on the ground (and most things in the air), and you can easily hover in place, fly backwards, and make hairpin turns at top speed. You receive +1 edge in any contest of speed or mobility.
